Tip from the Pro

How you setup the golf ball is an important fundamental. It helps you swing the club back on a better path and plane.

- Rarely will you see a golfer stand too close to the ball, in fact many people stand too far from it!
- Here's a simple formula for getting the address and posture correct:
 - Stand erect and find your hip bones with your thumbs.
 - Bend or tilt from here, not the waist. You should feel some pull in your back leg muscles.
 - From here, bend your knees and drop your weight. You should feel like you have a good hold of the ground now, also.
 - Finally, let your arms hang freely under your chest. Take your grip.
 - You can practice this on the range or at home with a mirror until it becomes second nature.
 - Remember that naturally the longer the club the further you will be from the ball. Pre-swing fundamentals are vital to consistency.

FAIRWAYS AND GREENS!
